The plot

Dr. Martin Harris (Neeson) and his wife Liz arrive in Berlin for a biotechnology summit. However, upon arriving at Hotel Adlon, Martin realizes his briefcase was left at the airport. He takes a taxicab driven by a woman named Gina, but on the way to the airport, the cab crashes off a bridge into the river. Martin is knocked unconscious upon impact, but Gina saves him from drowning before fleeing from the scene to avoid the police, since she is an illegal immigrant. Martin regains consciousness at the hospital after being in a coma for four days.

Martin returns to his hotel, only to discover another man with his wife, who claims she doesn't know him. He attempts to contact his old colleague Prof. Rodney Cole, but Cole is unavailable due to Thanksgiving in the US. Martin then heads to the office of Prof. Leo Bressler, whom he is scheduled to meet that day. However, he sees the impostor, "Martin B", already in a meeting with Bressler. As Martin attempts to prove his identity, Martin B shows him his ID and family photo – both of which have Martin's name, only with his face replaced by that of the impostor. Disillusioned by the identity crisis, Martin falls unconscious and finds himself back at the hospital. Smith, an assassin sent to target him, but Martin escapes.

As the film develops, the mystery of who Martin really is unfolds.

Questions to discuss

- ❖ What makes Martin so sure that he is who he thinks he is?
- ❖ What would you do in this situation?
- ❖ How do you KNOW for sure that you are you?
- ❖ Could anyone convince you that you aren't you? How would you respond to someone who tried?
- ❖ Do you think you could convince anyone that they aren't really who they think they are?
- ❖ Is there anything we know with absolute certainty? If so, what?
- ❖ How does this connect to Belief? In yourself? In religion? In God?
